Quality and Cost

The larger proportion of this year's catalog is being mailed to customers of recent years, many of whom have grown Miller Dahlia Farms Dahlias for over ten years. Representing every section of this country, they have proved to their satisfaction that our claim of "The Highest Quality Dahlia Roots Obtainable" is fully borne out by the results they obtain. And although the difficulty of obtaining help, and the demands for time and field space for Victory Garden vegetables have made necessary a reduction in quantity of Dahlias grown, there will be no change in the quality of the roots offered this year. A splendid growing season, only ending December 5, has produced a splendid crop of highest quality roots. An inspection of the prices for these will show that the country wide scarcity of good Dahlia stock for the coming season is not reflected by increases in cost to you.

REGARDING DATE OF SHIPMENT

ALL ORDERS are either shipped the day following receipt here, or notice sent to the customer by return mail. Full cultural directions are enclosed with each shipment of roots, and any questions regarding Dahlias or their culture will, as always, receive immediate attention, and early reply.

Roots may be ordered at any time and will be shipped at any date desired by the customer. However, it is advisable to have them sent not too long before the time for planting, as no Dahlia grower can be responsible for any loss which may occur on account of spoiling or drying out of roots which are in the customers' hands for a month or so before planting. And where early orders are used for forcing for the purpose of making cuttings to plant, there is no guarantee against rotting of the roots in this process. In sections where the spring is backward and the ground is still cold and wet in May, it is advised to keep the roots in the peat moss in which they are packed, and they will sprout nicely with hardly any attention, so when the ground is warmed up the new plant will have a better start than if it had been put in the ground earlier. Parcel post charges are all paid by me, and express charges on large shipments, but where small orders are wanted sent during weather when freezing might occur in transit, the shipment will be made express, charges collect.

ZONE NUMBER—The Post Office Department requests that Zone Number be used in cities where this system is in effect. Please note our Zone Number: Seattle 88, Wash.

Abbreviations following the name of the Dahlia refer to the various types as follows:

F.D.—Formal Decorative
S.C.—Semi-Cactus
I.D.—Informal Decorative

St. Cac.—Straight Cactus
Min.—Miniature (less than 4 inches in diameter)

The size of the average bloom is indicated by the figures following the abbreviation, thus—Adorable, I.D. 8x4—4½ shows this variety is an Informal Decorative type, with blooms 8 inches in diameter and 4 inches deep, with about a 4½-foot high plant as grown here. The length of stems is measured from the base of the bloom to the first leaf or bud below it.

THE PRICES AND OFFERINGS in this catalog cancel all previous prices and listings. There is no stock available not listed herein.

ARE FLOWERS NON-ESSENTIAL?

There is a section of our Pike Place Public Market where in season, growers of flowers arrange their blooms for display and sale. Here one may buy a modest bouquet for a few cents, or an elaborate arrangement for a comparatively low cost.

A customer, at one of the Dahlia stands one afternoon last summer, is perhaps typical of many. She was plainly dressed and small, about all you noticed as she looked over the vases of blooms on the table. Selecting a bouquet of the largest ones, she confided, "This is my birthday present and my boy in the Army sent me money for it." As she proudly bore her flowers away, it was evident to those seeing her radiant expression that it would be hard for any economic planning commission or efficiency expert to convince her that flowers should be considered non-essential.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF ORDERS

All orders are either shipped or acknowledged by return mail.

Full cultural directions for planting, cultivating and fertilizing the Dahlias are enclosed with each shipment. Also how to take care of the roots over winter. Any points not covered in these instructions will be gladly furnished on request.

GUARANTEE—All roots sent out are guaranteed to be sound, healthy, true to name and to have at least one live eye or sprout. Any root found unsatisfactory must be returned within three weeks of its receipt by the customer, for replacement or refund of the purchase price. Should a Dahlia prove untrue to name, it will be replaced the following season. No further obligation than the amount paid for the root is assumed by the Miller Dahlia Farms under this guarantee.

SUBSTITUTIONS—Stock of some varieties may not be equal to the demand, and to save time and correspondence or the necessity of a refund, it is suggested the customer allow the privilege of substituting similar varieties when necessary, especially in later orders. Extra value is always given in such cases.

IDENTIFICATION OF ROOTS—Stamped indelibly on each root is its name. This is done at the time of dividing the clumps so that there is very little possibility of a root being mislabeled.
